3 How and when do we collect your personal data?

We collect personal data directly from you, whether in person, on the phone or electronically via our websites, our online platform(s) and email or indirectly from other sources, including publicly available sources (see 'Collecting your personal data from others' Section below).

For example, we collect your personal data from you when you interact with us to:

- register interest in, enquire about or are involved in the application for one of our products and/or services or programs;
- provide us with feedback or make a complaint;
- use online services or use our mobile or tablet applications;
- visit our websites; or
- talk to us (including by us recording certain of your telephone calls with us), email us, do business with us or otherwise interact with us.

We may also collect your personal data if we infer or generate information about you based on your transactions, preferences, and behaviours (including through the use of data analytics).

4 Collecting your personal data from others.

From time to time we may collect personal data about you from others. Refer to Section 12 for the type of personal data we may collect from each of the entities listed below. For example, we may collect your information from:

- our business, corporate and institutional customers, where you are a representative, director, shareholder, corporate officer or signatory, beneficiary or shareholder of one of our customers, or otherwise give instructions on behalf of a customer;
- other Westpac Group companies;
- publicly available sources of information public insolvency registers and registers of banned and disqualified persons, government websites, company registers and civil registers, regulatory registers and websites, stock exchange registers and websites, shareholder registers, financial information research services, online search engines, social media websites, your company website, product prospectuses, annual reports and news media websites for the purpose of reviewing applications for our products and services;
- your representatives (including your legal adviser, financial adviser, executor, administrator, guardian, trustee, or those holding your power of attorney) for the purposes of assessing an application for a product with us, managing a product or for reviewing an investment account;
- our representatives authorised by us who introduce or facilitate products and services on our behalf;
- other organisations we jointly provide products or services with or have an arrangement with to provide our products or services;

9 Do we use or disclose your personal data for direct marketing?

We may use your personal data to offer you products and services we believe may be of interest and value to you. The products and services offered may be provided by us or by one of our third-party partners. We may offer you products and services by various means, including by telephone, email, online chat functions or other electronic means and in person meetings.

Particular circumstances that may apply to you

10 If we ask for, or collect, a personal tax identification number or an Australian Tax File Number.

This section applies (in addition to the rest of this Privacy Statement) if we ask for, or collect, your personal tax identification number, which could include your Australian tax file number (TFN) if applicable to you. Please see the Section 21 'Accessing and correcting your personal data and/or credit information' and Section 22 'Resolving your privacy complaints' to find out how to access your personal tax identification number or TFN, correct your details, or complain about our handling of your personal tax identification number or TFN or other personal data.

Why we collect your TFN.

We are authorised to collect the personal tax identification numbers or TFNs of:

- account holders, where the account you open earns interest, and investors under the Income Tax Assessment Act 1936 (Cth) as applicable; and
- superannuation fund members, under the Superannuation Industry (Supervision) Act 1993 (Cth) as applicable.

We only collect your personal tax identification number or TFN for purposes required or authorised by law, including for the purpose of reporting information to the relevant tax authorities in a relevant jurisdiction, including the Australian Taxation Office (ATO). If you are a superannuation fund member and you provide your permission for us to do so, we may also use your TFN to search for funds held by you with other superannuation or retirement savings providers for the purpose of consolidating your super.

Who we share your personal tax identification number or TFN with.

We are required to report details of interest or dividend income earned, withholding tax deducted and personal tax identification numbers or TFNs and exemptions recorded in connection with the accounts and investments you hold with us to the ATO.

In addition, if you are a superannuation fund member and you provide your TFN, we may provide your TFN to another super plan or retirement savings provider if your benefits are transferred, unless you request in writing that your TFN not be disclosed to anyone else.

Otherwise, your personal tax identification number or TFN will be kept confidential and only shared where permitted by law.

11 If you give us personal data about someone else.

Before you provide another person's personal data to us (for example, a person who is a director, shareholder or employee of a business, corporate or institutional customer) you must make them aware:

- that you will be doing this;
- of the contents of this Privacy Statement and any other relevant privacy notices; and
- that we will collect, use and share their personal data in accordance with this Privacy Statement and any other privacy notices we give you.

Where you provide us with another person's sensitive or special category information (or in Singapore, any personal data about another person) you must first obtain their consent to sharing it with us and their consent to us collecting, using and disclosing their sensitive information in accordance with this Privacy Statement and any other relevant privacy notices.

12 Use of Cookies.

Cookies are small pieces of information stored on your device hard drive or in memory. We use cookies to collect personal data directly from you when you interact with us through our public and secured websites, mobile or tablet applications. We collect limited personal data about you via cookies for the following purposes:

Purpose	Description

Personalise and improve your customer experience	Cookies can be used to remember user preferences or understand traffic or webpages. We do this to: <ul style="list-style-type: none">help us to remember you the next time you visit our websites;help us identify products and services that may be of interest and value to you;tailor digital content to your likely interests; andimprove the pages or sites visited by making them faster or more efficient.
Measurement and analysis	Cookies can be used to collect data (including location) about users who interact with our public and secured websites, mobile or tablet applications. This data is stored and analysed by us. We do this to measure effectiveness of our marketing, including via third parties, to improve our services to you.
Marketing and communication	Cookies can be used to launch segment targeted marketing campaigns, promote new services or websites and send segment or targeted messages to you. We do this to: <ul style="list-style-type: none">determine which products or services may be of interest and value to you and to tell you about them;advise you of new services or website or app features; andsend relevant messages to you.

If you are in the UK or EEA, there is additional information on the purpose of processing your personal data in Section 21 below.

13 How we protect your personal data.

We take a range of physical, electronic and other security measures, to protect the security, confidentiality and integrity of your personal data (including your sensitive and credit-related information). For example:

- access to our information systems is controlled through identity and access management controls;
- employees and our authorised representatives are bound by internal information security policies and are required to keep personal data secure;
- all employees and our authorised representatives are required to complete training about privacy and information security;
- we monitor and review our compliance with internal policies; and
- we regularly assess our security measures against industry best practices.

14 Transferring your personal data overseas.

For most products and services.

We may share or transfer your personal data outside of the country where it was collected to some of the types of recipients and for the purposes noted above, including:

- organisations operating overseas with whom we partner to provide goods and services to you and our contracted service providers operating overseas, which are likely to be located in Australia, New Zealand, United States, Canada, India, the Philippines, UK, Malaysia and Brazil;
- Westpac Group companies located in Australia, Germany, Hong Kong, Singapore, New Zealand, UK, United States, and Papua New Guinea to help us deliver or support the provision of our products and services to you; and
- for international transactions, such as currency exchanges, we will disclose your information to the corresponding international party and their financial services organisations in order to process the transaction. The countries where we disclose your information will depend on the details of the transaction you ask us to carry out.

Where required by law, we will obtain your consent for the transfer of personal data and we will take steps to ensure that your personal data continues to be protected as required under applicable law.

For further details on where we transfer, store and process your personal data, refer to Section 24.

15 Accessing and correcting your personal data.

You can request access to the personal data that we hold about you in accordance with local laws. You can also ask for corrections to be made to it in accordance with those laws. To do so, please contact us using the contact details provided below.

We will seek to verify your identity and authority before we allow access, or make changes, to your personal data.

There is no fee for requesting corrections to your personal data or for us to make those corrections. In some circumstances, we may, in accordance with applicable laws, charge you a reasonable amount for providing you with access to your personal data to cover the costs of locating the information, copying it and supplying it to you. If this applies, we will inform you of the fee in writing before processing your request.

If you are in Singapore, we will respond to your request as soon as reasonably possible. We endeavor to respond to requests within thirty (30) days. Should we not be able to respond to your request within thirty (30) days after receiving your request, we will inform you in writing of the time by which we will be able to respond to your request.

We are not required to provide you with access to your personal data in certain limited circumstances, for example where an exemption applies under applicable law.

If we refuse to give you access to or to correct your personal data, we will give you a notice explaining our reasons (except to the extent it would be unreasonable or unlawful for us to do so) and provide you with information on how you can complain about our refusal.

If you are in the UK or EEA, please see Section 26 below for specific rights under applicable laws.

16 Retention of personal data.

We may retain your personal data for as long as it is necessary to fulfil the purpose for which it was collected, or as required or permitted by applicable laws.

We will cease to retain your personal data or remove how the data can be associated with you as soon as it is reasonable to assume that such retention no longer serves the purpose for which the personal data was collected and is no longer necessary for legal or business purposes. If you are in the UK / EEA, please see Section 25 for more information on retention of your personal data.

17 Resolving your privacy complaints and concerns.

If you have a question or complaint about how your personal data is being handled by us, our affiliates or service providers, please contact us by using the contact details provided below.

Delivering on our service promise.

We are constantly striving to provide the best possible service, and we will do our best to efficiently and fairly resolve any concern you have.

Our commitment to you.

If you are ever unhappy about something we have done – or perhaps not done – please give us the opportunity to put things right.

Our aim is to resolve your complaint within five (5) business days, and where possible we will resolve your complaint on the spot. If we need additional time to get back to you, we will let you know. 23 When do we use your personal data to make automated decisions?

To provide an efficient and effective customer experience, in some circumstances we may make a decision based on information that we have about you that does not involve any human intervention. This is known as an automated decision. In most circumstances, we make automated decisions about a business or customer entity, rather than you as an individual.

For example, we may use automated decisions for the following reasons:

Type of automated decision	Reason for automated decision making
Detect and prevent fraud	To prevent and report on financial crime. If financial crime is detected or we notice suspicious activity on an account we may stop activity on the account or contact you for further information.
Detect and prevent money laundering	Based on transactional behaviours, we screen payments made to entities that are or may be: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• subject to legal sanctions;• deemed to be at risk of money laundering; or• made for illegal purposes. We may identify such activities and block these transactions from proceeding until such time we have investigated the issue.
Marketing	Based on the type of products and services with us and your online activity, we tailor marketing messages to you.

You have rights over automated decisions we make about you using your personal data. Where you are subject to an automated decision you can:

- ask that we do not make our decision based on automated processing alone;
- express your point of view; and
- object to an automated decision, and ask that a person reviews it, although your rights may be limited in circumstances where our automated decisions do not have a significant impact on you.

If you would like more information about your rights regarding automated decisions, please contact us using the contact details set out in this Policy see 'Contact Us' section.

24 Where do we transfer, store and process your personal data.

We will transfer your personal data outside of the UK and/or EEA:

- When you instruct us to do so;
- To comply with the law; and
- To work with our companies within the Westpac Group, partners and third parties who help us deliver our products and services.

Most of the personal data we hold about you will be stored electronically in secure data centres which are located in Australia and the United Kingdom and are owned by either the Westpac Group or contracted service providers (including cloud storage providers).

Where we disclose your personal data to a recipient located outside of the UK and/or EEA, these recipients may include the following:

- Westpac Group companies located in Australia, Singapore, New Zealand, United States, Fiji and Papua New Guinea;
- our contracted service providers operating in Australia, New Zealand, Canada, United States, India, the Philippines, UK, Malaysia, Brazil and China;
- organisations with whom we partner to provide goods and services and who are likely to be located outside of the UK or EEA, including, for example, in Australia and the United States; and
- for international transactions, such as currency exchanges, where we consider it necessary we may disclose your personal data to the corresponding international party in order to process the transaction. The countries we disclose your personal data to will depend on the details of the transaction you ask us to carry out.

Where we disclose and store your personal data outside of the UK and/or EEA, we will require it to be protected to an equivalent or higher standard than GDPR. In order to do this, we will:

- complete a transfer risk assessment;
- enter into standard contractual clauses with the recipient of your personal data outside of the UK and/or EEA in accordance with Art. 46(2) GDPR. For transfers outside of the UK a copy of the international data transfer agreement and addendum to the European Commission's standard contractual clauses is available at the following link: ico.org.uk/for-organisations/guide-to-data-protection/guide-to-the-general-data-protection-regulation-gdpr/international-data-transfer-agreement-and-guidance. For transfers outside the EEA, the standard contractual clauses are available at the following link: commission.europa.eu/publications/standard-contractual-clauses-international-transfers_en; and
- ensure that your personal data is transferred to recipients in jurisdictions that the UK government and/or European Commission has determined to offer adequate protection for your personal data. A list of countries for which the European Commission has issued a so-called adequacy decision according to Art. 45 GDPR is available at the following link: ec.europa.eu/info/law/law-topic/data-protection/international-dimension-data-protection/adequacy-decisions_en.

25 How long do we keep your personal data?

We will keep your personal data for as long as the customer the personal data is associated with is a customer of the Westpac Group. We also generally retain your personal data for at least seven years after the customer stops being a customer. This is in order to comply with our legal obligations and so that we can respond to any questions or complaints regarding our interactions with you or the customer.

We may also need to keep your personal data for a longer period, where required for legal, regulatory or other reasons. We will continue to safeguard your personal data for as long as we hold it.

If we no longer need to use your personal data for the purposes set out in this policy, we will take reasonable steps to destroy or permanently alter your personal data so that your identity cannot, by any reasonable means, be revealed from the data that we hold about you.

26 What are your rights?

You have the following rights with respect to the personal data we hold about you:

- Where we rely on your consent to process your personal data, you have a right to withdraw such consent at any time. If you withdraw your consent, we will, where required by law, stop the processing activities relevant to your consent. Please note that the withdrawal of consent does not affect the lawfulness of processing based on consent before its withdrawal.
- You can ask us for more information on how we have balanced legitimate interests and privacy and further can object to us using your personal data where we are relying on our legitimate interests to do so. However, in those circumstances we may have the opportunity to challenge your objection, which we would do in communication with you and in accordance with our legal obligations. For example, we may process your personal data if, and to the extent we can demonstrate compelling legitimate interests for the processing which override your interests, rights and freedoms or for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims. You can also object to us using your personal data for the purposes of direct marketing. In such case, we will no longer process your personal data for direct marketing purposes.
- You can request confirmation of whether we hold your personal data, and where we do, access to the personal data we hold about you (for example, by receiving a copy of it).
- You can request details about where we obtained your personal data from.
- You can ask us to return the personal data which you gave to us in a structured, commonly used and electronic (machine-readable) format, to allow you to pass it on to someone else. Where technically feasible, you have also the right to have your personal data transmitted directly from us to another controller.
- You can ask for corrections to be made to any inaccurate or incomplete personal data.
- You may ask us to stop or to restrict our processing of your personal data if, for example, the accuracy of your personal data is contested by you, or if our processing is unlawful and you oppose the erasure of your personal data and request the restriction.
- You can ask us to erase or remove your personal data if, for example, they are no longer necessary in relation to the purposes for which your personal data were collected or otherwise processed or if your personal data have been unlawfully processed.

- You can lodge a complaint with us or the relevant data protection authority, in particular in the EU Member State of your habitual residence, place of work or place of the alleged infringement. For data processing operations relating to the UK, you can lodge a complaint with the Information Commissioner's Office using their contact details set out in this statement.

We will communicate any requests to correct, erase or restrict the use of your personal data to a third party that we have disclosed your personal data.

If you have any questions about these rights, or you would like to exercise any of them, please contact us (see 'Contact Us' section above). We will endeavour to provide the information that you have requested within one month of your request and we will provide you with reasons if we are unable to meet this timeframe.

You will not generally be charged a fee. However, a reasonable fee may only be charged where your request is manifestly unfounded or excessive.

There may be legal reasons that exempt us from complying with your request. If this is relevant to you, we will discuss the reason.
